Welcome to Jungle Friends Primate Sanctuary!

We are happy to have you as one of our valued interns or volunteers. Dedicated people like you who are willing to give their time and expertise enable us to maintain a home for all our rescued primates. The monkeys are a huge responsibility and need us to care for them since humans have made sure they cannot care for themselves. The work is hard, the hours are long, the climate is hot and humid and the monkeys are not very cuddly or appreciative. Work can be very demanding and the monkeys will always come first.

It may be frustrating at times, but the rewards are immeasurable. You will feel a sense of immense joy and accomplishment knowing that you are part of the Jungle Friend's team - a team that is dedicated to bettering the lives of captive monkeys and to educating others of the need to protect these wild creatures' in their natural habitats.

When a monkey first arrives at Jungle Friends, the monkey's physical and psychological condition can be heartbreaking. Self-mutilation, pacing, and fearfulness of its own species and humans are just a few of the neuroses commonly seen in abused and neglected captive primates. Upon seeing that same monkey slowly progress into a playful monkey socialized with its own species, the emotions you will undoubtedly feel are well worth the blood, sweat, and tears that you will inevitably shed during a long rehabilitation process.

For the well-being of our jungle friends, we must maintain and enforce strict rules. Not following the rules, insubordination or failure to comply with your team leader could result in your immediate termination and you will be asked to leave. We ask that you arrive for all of your shifts on time, as it is important to the care-giving schedule, as well as the monkeys' emotional well being. We understand that you have a life and responsibilities outside of Jungle Friends, in turn, please understand that this sanctuary is the monkeys' entire life and existence.

We are all here to learn, so please ask as many questions as you like. Only by learning more about these fascinating monkeys can we help them. We look forward to seeing you and are sure you will find your experience at Jungle Friends fulfilling. You will create memories at Jungle Friends that will last a lifetime!

JUNGLE FRIENDS PRIMATE SANCTUARY RULES

LEAVE YOUR EGOS AT THE GATE!

A successful caregiver at Jungle Friends is here for the monkeys

Please read the rules below and sign at the bottom, therefore acknowledging that you understand them. These rules are for your safety and the well being of the monkeys.

1. Due to insurance and health considerations, smoking is not permitted at Jungle Friends.
2. DO NOT come within 3 feet of the monkeys' habitats or put your hands on or in the enclosures.
3. DO NOT talk to any of the monkeys without specific permission from the team leader in charge.
4. DO NOT run around the premises or make loud noises - be respectful of the monkeys' space. Some monkeys do not like to be stared at, if they make it apparent that they don't want your company, avert your eyes and walk away. Please be considerate of their ways of communication.
5. DO NOT go into any enclosures where monkeys are present.
6. DO NOT come to Jungle Friends if you are ill or have a canker/cold sore, as you can transmit viruses.
7. DO NOT feed the monkeys or pick up and hand them food they drop. We must know exactly what they eat so that their diet remains balanced; we have several monkeys that require special diets.
8. Never touch the monkey's food once it is in their possession. Never hand food to the monkeys, as it can cause fights between them.
9. DO NOT ever take anything away from a monkey. If it is something they should not have, let your team leader know immediately.
10. DO NOT touch each other or hand anything to another person in the monkeys' presence.
11. When and if Kari or your team leader gives you permission, always talk to the monkeys in a low soothing voice. Monkeys are quiet creatures and communicate more through gesturing than vocalizations. Never use any negative words (such as no, don't, stop, bad, etc.) or argue in the monkeys' presence.
12. If you take something into an animal's space when cleaning, always remember to take it out, i.e. rags, brush, bucket, scissors etc.
13. While cleaning a habitat, always make sure the outside entry gate is closed while inside.
14. Always lock habitats before leaving the area, and have your locks double-checked by a team leader, who alone may give the monkeys access back into the area.
15. Always close gates and doors after entering or exiting.
16. Clean up after yourself and put away everything you use. A clean sanctuary is a happy sanctuary!
17. There is a sign in sheet. Always sign in and out.
18. If you do not understand the rules or have questions or concerns, please talk to Kari or our carestaff.
