Jungle Friends: Growing to meet the need

We need your help to help them... support the Jungle Friends Expansion Project

Help us continue their care... please make a donation today!

Baby Monkeys at Jungle Friends

Monkers is a juvenile brown capuchin rescued from a bankrupt roadside zoo, along with her younger sister Zumie, and a nursing mother and infant. Unfortunately, the monkeys were anesthetized to be captured for transport. When the mama monkey woke up, she rejected her baby. The infant, only a few months old, was nearly dead at the end of the thousand-mile trip to Jungle Friends.

Sanctuary staff and volunteers stepped in to bottle feed the baby and care for his physical needs... and to our delight, little Monkers stepped up to provide monkey nurturing. She has appointed herself as the little one's foster mom – carrying him, grooming and playing with him.

Visit our website for video, photos and more!

Marmoset matchmaking... Hello, Peanut!

The new girl in the village has our marmie bachelors sitting up and taking notice. After nearly a year on the waiting list, Peanut arrived at her new home in Jungle Friends' "Marmoset Village" on Nov. 26, 2010. She found the runway to her indoor enclosure with ease, and was soon running in and out, climbing the trees, balancing on the ropes and flirting with MoMo, Giz and old Arnold!

Marmosets naturally live in male-female pairs. However, the gender balance at Jungle Friends remains heavy on the boys' side. The sanctuary is full to bursting, but when we hear of a tiny damsel in distress, like Peanut, we do what we can to provide sanctuary... and a chance for romance. The next rounds of the dating game will soon begin... meeting the bachelors in monitored socializations. Who will Peanut choose?

Be sure to 'friend' Kari Bagnall on Facebook and follow the action!

The film Sanctuary brings Jungle Friends monkeys to the screen

Award-winning documentary filmmaker Shannon Keith is focusing her camera's lens on the world of sanctuary monkeys. Some of Jungle Friends' best-loved monkeys will soon become documentary stars! We are excited about this opportunity to put the plight of captive primates before a mainstream audience.

ARME/Uncaged Films' previous productions include Behind the Mask and Skin Trade. Their latest work, Sanctuary, is currently in production. View the trailer at www.sanctuarymovie.com.

Director Shannon Keith plans the day's shoot at Jungle Friends with Jill Ryther, Kari Bagnall and another woman.

Expansion Efforts Continue

Your donation at any level for our Expansion Project provides help for monkeys on our waiting list today — and an opportunity to build for the future.

When you say YES, we can say YES!

Please VOTE daily at the Pepsi Refresh Project to make our expansion dreams come true!

The $250,000 grant will purchase the property we need to grow and help so many more!

Please Sponsor-A-Monkey Today!

Our sponsors are the lifeblood of the sanctuary, allowing us to provide a home and care for our monkeys day after day, month after month, year after year. Sponsorships are available at levels to suit every budget, from $10 to $100 a month.

Sponsorships make a great gift! Sponsors receive a personalized, framed certificate, original monkey art and other 'monkey gifts.'

Incredible Intern!

Mimi Sanada joined Jungle Friends in July and has accepted a one-year caregiver apprenticeship at the sanctuary. She now leads the daily operations, and she's a perfect fit – just like Jungle Friends, Mimi is all about the monkeys.

Mimi has taken charge of bottle-feeding and caring for the baby monkeys since they arrived in October. That might sound like a cushy job, but fitting in feedings every few hours, on top of a schedule packed with sanctuary chores, is a daunting task. Mimi took on the additional responsibility the way she handles everything – calm, cool, collected and with a smile!

Valuable Volunteers!

Jennifer Rusczyk started volunteering at Jungle Friends back in 2003 and has been one of our most consistent supporters — regularly driving all the way from Tampa to put in a day's work at the sanctuary. She has made it her personal mission, not just to volunteer herself, but to recruit other volunteers and supporters as well.

Jen not only heads up work groups, she's also gifted at inspiring others to give — donations of food, tools, office supplies and funds follow in her wake.

When we need a new habitat quick for a monkey arrival, or find ourselves short of interns, it is Jen to the rescue with her loyal band of volunteers!

Enter now to Name the Baby!

Stop calling me Baby!

We've promised him a name for New Years, and we need your help to find the right one!

Visit our website to enter our Name the Baby Contest! Donate $10 and throw your nomination in the hat, or get six entries for $50.

The prize for the winning entry is a 2011 Jungle Friends Monkey Calendar — and the name you chose will forever be with our Baby Boy!

Volunteer Opportunities

Jungle Friends is built on the hard work of our volunteers. If you would like to help the monkeys, we would love to have you. We accomplish so much when we have groups come out for the day!

Come volunteer... you'll love it!
